THEATRICAL MEN AND MAYOR DISAGREE

Question of Construction of City Ordinance to be Settled in the Courts.

The misunderstanding between Mayor McCarthy and the theatre managers continues and when the case against the Academy of Music is called in the Police Court this morning, the Mayor will contend that the managers have violated the ordinance by allowing persons to stand in the foyer, the space immediately in rear of the orchestra and balcony seats. The managers, through their counsel, Mr. Allen G. Collins, will contend that the sense of the ordinance is not to prohibit a reasonable number of persons from standing in the foyer, but that a proper construction of the law means that persons may not stand or sit in the aisles of the theatre.

Pending a settlement of the question, however, the managers will not allow any one to stand in any part of either of the theatres, and any persons holding coupon tickets will be admitted. A conference was held yesterday afternoon at the City Hall, with the Mayor, Manager Wells, Manager Rex, Chief Hulse and Fire Commissioners Frischkorn and Lecky present. The City Attorney, Mr. Allen G. Collins, will contend that the sense of the ordinance is not to prohibit a reasonable number of persons from standing in the foyer, but that a proper construction of the law means that persons may not stand or sit in the aisles of the theatre.

Manager Wells said last night that it would be suicidal in him to "run up against the law." He said that the management of both theatres desired to keep within the laws and to provide all comforts, conveniences and safety to the patrons of the theatres. If their construction of the ordinance in question is wrong, they are perfectly willing and more than anxious to accept and abide by the proper construction.

"We want to do nothing but what is right," said Mr. Wells. "Our interests lie in this city. We are taxpayers, and we want to do what is right. It would be absurd for us to evade any of the laws. We cannot agree with the Mayor on the construction of the ordinance, but we will carry out his suggestion pending a settlement by the courts."

The case against the Bijou Theatre now pending in the Hustling Court. The case against the Academy, if Justice Crutchfield decides with the Mayor, will also be appealed.

COUNTRY BOY A HERO.

It is common in melodrama for the low comedian to baffle the villain, but he generally does it by transforming himself into a marvel of defective ability or a Johnny come-lately. Tom Cod, at the Bijou, blunders into the right place, but in the sensational melodrama, "Light House by the Sea," at the Bijou this week, Tom Cod, an indolent, slovenly, half-witted fellow, who has no intention of saving anybody, nor any idea that anybody is to be saved, blunders into the path of the villain, and, by a series of accidents and blunders, his accidental interference
